

My Dearest @simonlewisOMJ

It's now more than four weeks since you walked out on me and I remain devastated. I can't get you out of my head. Christmas wasn't the same without your festive cheer.

No matter where I turn there are reminders of you everywhere. I see your friends mentioning you all the time.

Please come back.

I'm sorry you feel I'm a "lying whore" and that you got fed up with the "splurge of shit" that was "polluting" your life. I honestly felt you wanted to know what people were up to and I thought you found the information useful?

I can change. I can help you retrieve the days when you thought we were amazing. I can do that. You want more benevolence? I'll make that happen. Just give me a chance to prove it.

And it's not just me either, because I know your friends and followers are missing you too. Only the other day someone tweeted "where's @simonlewisOMJ?" and it broke my heart you couldn't respond.

I miss you so much: your funny comments; the quirky ways; those brash moments when you've had a beer; and of course, the handsome avatar. 😊

I'm literally on my knees here, darling – just as you always liked it.

Can we try again?

Yours always,

